

After over 2 decades of campaigning, we are thrilled to announce that Amasango is on its way to having a brand new site!

After a very long and continuing legal battle with the Department of Education, work has finally started on the new site for Amasango School. The ground has been levelled, and utilities are being laid. Initially, the school will be moved into temporary buildings (some of which are coming from the current site) before permanent structures are put in place. The school are still pushing to ensure that the permanent structures are fit for purpose and will meet the needs of the growing school.

Other news from Amasango

In September, Dr Girlie Shadaya visited the UK. She visited several schools, churches and places of interest in order to update and raise awareness of the work Amasango continues to do with children who are severely marginalised. She spent time in Coventry learning about the significance of Amasango being an International Cross of Nails school (<https://www.coventrycathedral.org.uk/reconciliation/icon-schools>) as well as joining in a fundraising quiz at St Andrews in South Harrow. Networking and fundraising are the core aims of the visit each year - do let us know if you would like a visit next time.

Grade 7 celebrated the end of the school year and their graduation from Amasango. The class will now progress onto high school, college, apprenticeships or employment. We wish them all the very best, and, as past pupils of Amasango, will continue to receive our financial support in the form of food parcels, educational supplies and uniforms.

St Andrews College in Grahamstown have recently donated football kit and equipment to Amasango - this will boost the team's morale. Sport is an important element of the education of learners at Amasango, teaching valuable team skills and preparing them for success and failure.

As always, without your continued generosity, we would be unable to support the pupils and staff of Amasango - the cost of living has increased across the world and, as such, we are working hard to ensure that we maintain the levels of food, uniform and past pupil support. We are thankful for the work of the staff at Amasango for sourcing the food and uniform in the most economical ways and for their tireless work in organising and distributing it to the pupils and their families.

Thank you for your support and we look forward to keeping you up to date with the new school site and other news later in the year.
